Art Unit: 3754

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 1-38 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by German DE 100 17 438. As noted in the PCT search report dated 11/28/2003 DE/438 discloses a dispenser including a storage chamber 2, an outlet orifice 13, 35, a metering chamber 7, an outlet opening 18, a transfer opening 22, a boundary wall structure 3 that is capable of taking the positions as claimed and an actuation mechanism 4. In regard to claims 5, 9 and 26, the embodiment as shown in figure 5 is capable of being used in the manner claimed regardless of whether or not DE discloses the actual positions. A user could push piston 3 past opening 22 to isolate a metered dose based on the height of actuator 4 above the housing 1 and then dispense as claimed. Whether or not the apparatus is used in this manner depends on a future act of use and not on any claimed structural difference.

3. Claims 1-38 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Jouillat et al. (5,024,355). As noted in the PCT preliminary examination report dated 11/25/2004, Jouillat (French 2,645,509 in the report) discloses a dispenser including a storage chamber 1, an outlet orifice 24, a metering chamber 11 as shown in figures 2 or 9, an outlet opening 35, a transfer opening 11' or 11a, a boundary wall structure 3, 31 and an actuation mechanism 2.

4. Claims 1-38 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Voellmicke et al. (7,008,433). Voellmicke discloses a dispenser including a storage chamber 3, an outlet orifice 27, a metering chamber 21, an outlet opening at the base of 27, a transfer opening 5, 25, a boundary wall structure 35 and an actuation mechanism 39 wherein the device can take various positions as shown at A, C, B2 and B3.

5. Claims 1-29 and 31-37 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Spaude et al. (4,077,494). Spaude discloses a dispenser including a storage chamber 2, an outlet orifice 45, a metering chamber 39, an outlet opening 34, a transfer opening 42, a boundary wall structure 41 that is capable of taking the positions as claimed and an actuation mechanism 38. The dispenser of Spaude is capable of being used in the manner claimed regardless of whether or not Spaude discloses the actual positions. A user could push piston 40 past opening 42 to isolate a metered dose based on the height of piston 40 above the housing 28 and then dispense as claimed. Whether or not the apparatus is used in this manner depends on a future act of use and not on any claimed structural difference.

6. The references cited on the PTO-892 teach other metering dispensers.
